PRAISE

Praise with upraised hands is a common sight at Catholic Charismatic meetings. This was the usual stance for prayer among early Christians. In the catacombs of Rome, many wall drawings show this pose. People who did not grow up with this way of praying may find it strange at first, but many soon find it a very natural way to lift their hearts and minds to God

PRAYER

We often pray for one another and for others who are seeking the Lord's touch for healing, comfort, or other needs, by the laying on of hands. The effectiveness of this form of prayer is part of many testimonies of answered prayer. We simply join in the prayer request with the person seeking help; the One who acts in power to fill the need is the Lord Jesus, no one else.
